Stage Gossip.

The mere mention of the fact that Arthur Wing Pinero has written a new play must always excite a well merited and general interest. And when this new play of his has not only already earned the intelligent approval of the thoughtful in London, but is also on the verge of an adequate interpretation by a company as able and accomplished as that which invariably surrounds John Drew, the attention of theater goers is aroused to a considerable extent.

In "His House In Order" Mr. Pinero has written a comedy of manners of evident mildness of aspect in which the motives of action are neither far-fetched nor overstrained, which moves smoothly to a happy if somewhat tame and traditional conclusion and in which the characters are clearly drawn, typical and cleverly differentiated.

Arnold Daly is rehearsing the plays of his repertoire at the Lyric theater, New York. He will begin his season on Sept. 10 in Boston in "Arms and the Man." While one is prepared to admit the courage, the energy and the foresight evinced by Mr. Daly in producing Shaw's brilliant, paradoxical and witty plays, one would think that the word "genius" should be reserved for the man who wrote them rather than the man who interprets—but, then, genius is a very big word.

Viola De Costa, star of "Mamzelle Champagne," at the Madison Square roof garden, New York, has won fame this season through her engaging, diverting work in the title role. She sings and dances most attractively.

It was on this roof garden the opening night that Harry Thaw of Pittsburgh shot and killed Stanford White, the famous architect.
